Stay yet a little longer in the sky, O golden color of the evening sun! Let not the sweet day in its sweetness die, While my day's work is only just begun. Counting the happy chances strown about Thick at the laves, and saying which was best,

The rosy lights of morning all went out, And it was burning noon, and time to rest. Then leaving low upon a piece of shade,
Fringed round with violets and pansies sweet;
My heart and I, I said, will be delayed,
And plan our work while cools the suitry heat.

But when the idle pleasure ceased to please, And I awoke, and not a plan was planned, Just as a drowning man, at what he sees, Catches for life, I caught the thing at hand.

And so life's little work day hour has all Been spent, and misspent doing what I could; And in regrets and efforts to recall The chance of having, being, what I would. And so sometimes I cannot choose but cry, Seeing my late-sown flowers are hardly set— O darkening color of the evening sky, Spare me the day a little longer yet!

FOREIGN NOTES.

-Dickens' works, it is announced, are to b illustrated by Gustave Dore. -John Bright wants America to abolish capital punishment as an experiment for England's

-Paul Huet, one of the most distinguished landscape painters of the original Romanic school, died in Paris on the 9th of February.

He was 65 years old. It is said that the Pope has commissioned the Abbe Liszt to prepare a scheme for rescuing sacred music from the state of degradation into which it has fallen in Italy.

-Cardinal Cullen, in his regulations for Lent, published in England, warns his people that if Freemasons, Ribbonmen, or Fenians, they cannot be admitted to the sacraments.

-One of those simple improvements in the construction of a long-known article, has recently been announced in England, in regard to the gumming of envelopes, consisting in applying the mucilage to the lower part of the envelope, instead of the flap. On moistening the edge of the flap, as usual, and pressing it down upon the gummed surface below, a very horough adhesion takes place, without the objection of getting the taste of the gum in the mouth, or removing a part of it by the tongue.

-In criminal prosecutions in France, barristers are nover seen speaking now for the accused, and now for the prosecution. Once enlisted in one of these two centending armies, a barrister is bound for life to see and convict guilt in every case, or, on the contrary, to support and protect innocence. This is the result | of the government system of employing attorneys for life to serve in all its courts. Each Procureur-General or Procureur Imperial is surrounded by a staff of lawyers known as avocals generaux or substituts. These are wholly severed from the bar, and enlisted in the public service. It is from this class of lawyers that the judges are chosen.

-A case which excites extraordinary interest, was recently commenced in the Court of Saurin, sues Mrs. Starr, Superioress of the Roman Catholic Convent of Hull, on a charge of conspiring with other persons to secure her expulsion from the convent; demands restoration of certain small articles belonging to her, and asks £5000 worth of damages for a libel, an accusation of theft contained in a letter from the Superioress to the Roman Catholic Bishop of Beverley. The case is nearly unique, the lady's complaint being, not that she was kept in a convent-the usual form of such complaints-but that she was driven out by a system of petty persecution. The persecution | P 1b. took the form of compelling her to do menial work, eat bad food, and generally submit to discomfort; and the defence will probably be either that the facts are untrue, and the humiliations were inflicted for the soul's health. complaining nun was really a pauper boarder. | pentine 33s 3d.

-The International, of London and Paris. of the 3d instant, publishes a plan of Count Bismarck's geographical views respecting the is the solid and square proportions given to the Prussian empire, the frontiers of which are indicated as follows: To the north along the Baltic from the Vistula to the frontiers of Holland, including Denmark; to the southeast it avoids Cracow and Vienna, but includes Bobe mia. Bayaria and Wurtemburg on to the right shore of the Rhine, the left being ceded to France. Switzerland and Holland are left, as 29%0. it were, in doubt, the frontier line not being in either case carried past the present boundaries of those countries. Berlin is indicated as the imperial capital, while Hanover, Posen, Dresden, Prague, Stuttgart and Munich are classified as the seats of viceroyalties. Austria and the Principalities are entitled the Danubian Empire. The Russian limits start from the north at the mouth of the Vistula and strike off eastward at the city of Cracow, which city is included in the Danubian empire. The line of the French empire follows the left shore of the Rhine from the frontiers of Holland to the frontiers of Switzerland. -An accident probably without parallel occurred on the 4th instant, to a number of gentlemen whilst hunting. The York and Ainsty hounds met at Stainby House, between Harrowgate and Ripon, and a fox was found at Monkton Wyn. It took the direction toward sides '7% a17%. Lard firm at 19. Whiskey steady Copgrove, and thence to Newby. The hounds | at 92. crossed the river Ure, nearly opposite Newby House, the residence of Lady Mary Vyner, and sixteen or seventeen gentlemen entered a large ferry-boat, with their horses, for the purpose of continuing the pursuit. Before the boat had got one-third over the stream one of the horses began to plunge, and something like a panic among the animals took place. The boat was swayed first to one side and then to the other, and finally it was capsized and turned bottom upwards. The spectators on the bank took prompt measures to rescue the persons who were thus plunged into the swollen river. Those who could thus swim cast off their coats and plunged in to save their friends, whilst others formed lines of whips tied together, and threw them within reach of the drowning men. Several beams of wood which fortunately lay scattered about were also quickly launched on the stream. By these means several lives were saved, but six of the party were unhappily drowned: Sir Charles Slingsby, Bart., of Scriven Park; Mr. E. Lloyd, of Lingcroft, near York; Mr. Edmund Robinson, of York; W. Ovis (first whip), Warriner (gardener at Newby Hall), and his son. -The Paris papers publish a manifesto which has just been issued by the ex-Queen Isabella of Span to the people of that country. She commences by stating that men whom she had overwhelmed with favors suddenly pretended, though they had a hundred times sworn the contrary, that her dynasty was an obstacle to the development of the mation, and that though her heart told her this was false, she shrank from civil war, and allowed these men to assume power in order that they might make the people happier, richer and more glorious. Five menths have elapsed, and what is now the position of the people, she asks. Their blood has been shed in the streets of Cadiz and Malaga; their wealth is diminished; Cuba is upon the point of being given up to foreigners; fanaticism has been aroused by insults offered to the church; Spain has lost her rank in Europe, and, were any great event to arise, would be excluded from the common action of the Powers; commerce and industry are dead; civil war is imminent, and the social edifice, deprived of proper support, is about to fall to pieces. As no one has appeared with genius enough to save the country, the ex-Queen says she feels it to be her duty to persist more than ever in her firm determination to remain its sovereign. She calls upon the people to unite with her in the work of regeneration, of tolerance, and especially of liberty, of which she is the symbol. In conclusion, she says: "I am entirely devoted to you; and I come to you. my sen in my arms, to restore to you what has been taken from you-your repose, your fortune, your power, and the supremacy of your faith. -The enthronement of the Most Rev. Archibald Campbell Tait, D. D., D. C. L., Primate of All-England and Metropolitan, ninety-second Archbishop of Canterbury, took place in the metropolitical church of the province in the presence of a vast number of persons. The Dean and Chapter, with others connected with the cathedral, assembled in the audit-room, where Sir Travers Twiss, the Vicar-General of the Province, produced the Queen's mandate for the enthronement. A procession was then formed and passed through the great western door of the cathedral into the choir, immediately upon which the Hallelujah Chorus was sung, and divine service was proceeded with. At the end of the first lesson the Archdeacon of Maidstone, acting for the Archdeacon of Canterbury, who, on account of his great age, was unable to attend, conducted the Archbishep to the throne, the Dean and Canons standing round, and said : "I do induct, install, and enthrone you the most Reverend Father in God, Archibald Campbell Tait, Doctor in Divinity, Lord Archbishop of Canterbury, into the archbishopric and archiepiscopal dignity of the See of Canterbury, into the real, actual and corporal profession of the same, with all and singular the rights, dignities, honors, pre-eminences and appurtenances thereof; and the Lord preserve your going out and coming in from this time forth for evermore. Amen." The Archbishop remaining on his throne, and the Dean, Vice-Dean and Archdeacon having returned to their stalls, the service proceeded with the "Benedicite," the anthem being, "This is the day which the Lord hath made," by Professor J. H. S. Oakley, of the Edinburgh University. The Archbishop was next conducted to the marble chair, and then to the Dean's stall, when the "Te Deum" was sung. The Very Rev. the Dean then read the suffrages and the prayer for the new archbishop. The Archbishop pronounced the blessing from the Dean's stall, and the proceeding in the cathedral closed, the legal formalities being gone through in the Chapter House.

Analysis of Rhodes' Standard Superphosphate of Lime.

Common Phosphoric Acid. 16.03
Equal to Bone Phosphate 34.99
Total Phosphates 54.77

The above analysis indicates a Manurial Superphosphate of Lime of the highest grade ordinarily found in the American market. Its large amount of Soluble Phosphoric Acid supplies an active nutriment for the development and maturity of the fruitage. The Sulphuric Acid which it contains, by chemical affinity with the elements of most soils contribute to its Fertilizing Properties. To show its bost effects, this Superphosphate should be applied under and in contact with the Seed, and with a moderately shallow covering of soil.
